

ALPASIN

WILD IBERIA

THE RESERVE

ALPASIN holds a serie of natural enclaves which own a special beauty, located in the heart of Sierra Morena. In the habitats where our hides are ubicated, in Adamauz, you will be able to observe and photograph a wide range of species all the year around.

The big Iberian raptors, such us the Spanish Iperial Eagle, the Golden Eagle and the Bonnelli's Eagle, are the main characters of our hies and its photography is possible practically all year. Moreover, species as the Iberian Lynx stand out, counting with a popolation of 80 individuals approximately. During Fall and Winter, species like the Griffon and Black Vultures are the protagonists of the beautiful skies of the South. In seasons like Summer, the Kingfisher, Purple Heron, Bee eaters and Golden Oriole are some of the species that have higher activity. This season is also one of the best moments to observe the Eagle-owl.

In Spring the landscape fills up with flowers and wildlife. In addition of the different birds of prey that inhabit this land, in this season birds like the Hoopoe, the Cuckoo, the Little Owl, the Kestrel and a few more, arrive at the territory or increase their activity in the field. During autumn you can not miss the Rut of the Red Deers, a unique time, that enables you to enjoy the observ and listen the bellows of the big deer males that live in our forests of Holm and Cork oaks.

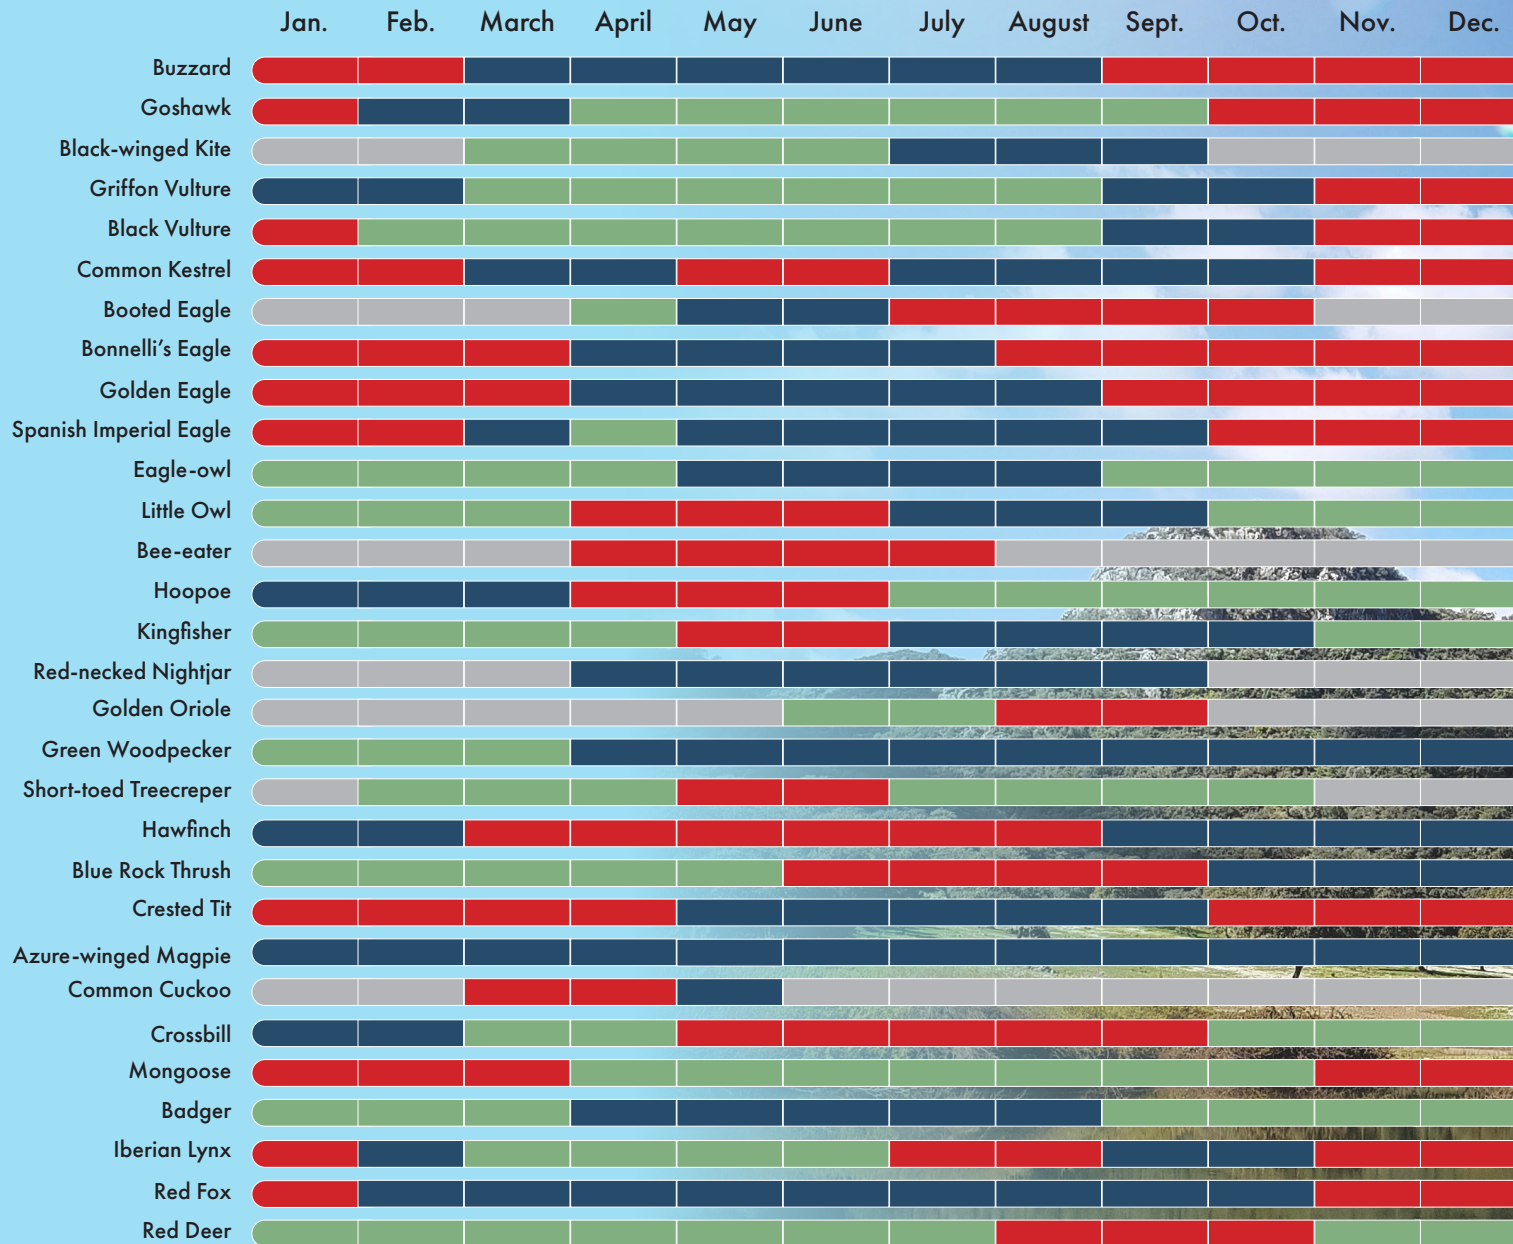

Each visit is always a new experience due to every 3 months we change settings and perchers where usually appear the raptors and mammals that can be found in our reserve.
