An iconic building in honour of olive oil and Ronda.

The museum visit features information about extra virgin olive oil, historic portraits of Pedro Romero and Abbas Ibn Firnas, and exclusive pieces designed by Philippe Starck to compliment this great artwork.

Restaurant, cocktail bar and tasting hall: local flavours, exclusive olive oils and genuine delights for the senses in every single space.

An enormous tube transports the olives through the building to the tank at reception, where the pressing and extraction process gets underway.

The cantilevered terrace looks onto the Ronda and Grazalema mountain ranges, offering spectacular views from an elevated location that merges nature with contemporary design.

The imposing bull's horn and the giant eye invite visitors to explore further, while a monumental half-olive made of corten steel celebrates the essence of olive oil and Andalusian identity.

The endless belt carries the olives into the monumental tube, a symbol of the connection between tradition and modernity. Outside, a sculpture with a giant tube releases water, representing the cycle of life and respect for nature.

The estate follows a completely organic philosophy, which the visitor will appreciate throughout the whole visit. We grow a wide variety of products, from vegetables and aromatic plants to fruit trees.

Organic vineyard

On our estate, we grow organic Pinot Noir grapes. Production from this vineyard will be turned into an exclusive wine developed by Michel Rolland, one of the world's most renowned and influential oenologists.

Olive varieties walkway

During this state of the tour, visitors are invited to discover up to 25 different olive varieties, with trees from different locations across the globe. From native species through to the most exotic olives.

Seven age-old olive trees form a garden, surrounded by lavender and rosemary, which offers views of the farmhouse and the Serranía de Ronda mountains. A space for contemplation, where visitors can connect with nature.
